

Abstract of the Disclosure

A method and system propagates only interesting sound information to a user who is otherwise acoustically isolated from sound. This is a task particularly useful for people that work in, or enjoy noisy environments, and are placed in a soundproof room, or are otherwise unable to detect critical sounds. By automatically detecting critical sounds, the user can be alerted by a signal generated in response to detecting the selected sound information.